BEHIND THE SCENES: KEEPING THE TAP RUNNING

Schertz-Seguin Local Corp. staff faces challenges everyday

SEGUIN, Texas – Shawn Shimek is the Water System Superintendent with the Schertz-Seguin Local Government Corporation (SSLGC) who supplies the drinking water that flows through the pipes into your home.

“It’s easy to overlook the complicated process of monitoring water flows, chemical levels and other aspects of ensuring our drinking water meets state and federal regulations,” said Shimek, “but my guys are taking care of our water every minute of the day.”

The Schertz-Seguin Local Government Corporation transports water from the Carrizo-Wilcox Aquifer to the Seguin Water Plant. From there, it’s distributed through city water lines every time someone turns on the faucet.

“Just like your firefighters and police officers who serve our community by keeping you safe, we’re the unsung heroes of providing residents with high quality water for drinking, bathing, cooking and gardening,” added Shimek.

Mayor Don Keil proclaimed May 1st through May 7th as Drinking Water Week in the City of Seguin. For more information on how you can celebrate our drinking water, head to <http://www.drinktap.org/>
